Clockaudio to Exhibit at Infocomm 2017 in Orlando, Florida

June 12, 2017 – Waterlooville, Hampshire, United Kingdom - Clockaudio Ltd., the global leader in pro-av microphone technologies based in the UK and with offices in North America and Asia, is excited to be showcasing their products and audio solutions at Infocomm 2017.

Infocomm 2017 will be held in Orlando, June 14 – 16, 2017. The show, which brings together audio and video professionals from around the country and the world, provides an excellent platform for Clockaudio to showcase its latest technologies and meet with its dedicated reps, dealers, distributors and clients.

This year the company has also entered its widely popular conference solution, the CDT-100 Transporter, into the Commercial Integrator Best of Infocomm Awards program. Judging for the product winners will be made at the show, with announcements in the Commercial Integrator's July issue.

Robert Moreau, Managing Director for Clockaudio North America says, "We always look forward to the opportunity to meet with our reps, distributors, integrators and clients at Infocomm. It is one of the best ways to get feedback from our clients and to better understand the challenges they face in an evolving market place so that we can gear future products and enhancements to existing products to meet these challenges."

Clockaudio professional microphones and equipment have a strong presence in a broad range of industries such as, broadcasting, parliaments, courts, council chambers, places of worship, airports, banks, leisure centers and are becoming the preferred choice for many key applications. At Infocomm, Clockaudio will be in Booth 5181 at the Orlando County Convention Center.
