Clockaudio wins Best of InfoComm 2015 Award from rAve Publications

August 3, 2015 – Waterlooville, Hampshire, United Kingdom – Clockaudio, a global leader in pro-av microphone technologies based in the UK and with offices in North America and Asia, is a proud recipient of the Best of InfoComm 2015 Award as chosen by rAve Publications. In the category of Best New Meeting Room Audio Product, Clockaudio's CCRM 4000 Retractable Microphone stood out above thousands of products that were exhibited at this year's InfoComm show held in Orlando, Florida this past June.

Clockaudio's innovative CCRM 4000 microphone is designed to take center stage in the modern-day meeting room. The CCRM 4000 is retractable up to 7 feet, is UL listed, mounts on a ceiling tile bridge and can be operated via a control system. The single element cardioid mic is set with a knuckle joint so it can be pointed in any direction. For optimal operation, users can follow two instructional videos on Clockaudio's YouTube channel <http://www.youtube.com/clockaudio>.

Each year at InfoComm Show, rAve, a digital publication which serves the commercial and residential audiovisual industries, gives out the Best of InfoComm Awards to companies who exhibit the most innovating and exciting new products. The staff at rAve choose the best and brightest new products in each category, and after the show is over they announce the winners.

Clockaudio is thrilled to have been chosen by rAve Publications. For a list of all of the Best of InfoComm 2015 winners, click here: <http://www.ravepubs.com/2015-best-of-infocomm-awards/>
