Heading to Amsterdam, Clockaudio Sets Sites on ISE 2017

January 25, 2017 – Waterlooville, Hampshire, United Kingdom - Clockaudio Ltd., a global leader in pro-AV microphone technologies based in the UK and with offices in North America and Asia, is gearing up for its next appearance at Integrated Systems Europe (ISE), February 7 – 10, 2017.

The 14th edition of ISE, taking place at the RAI Amsterdam is expected to attract more than 65,000 visitors to more than 1,100 exhibitors. For four days, the newly extended show floor will be home to a community of manufacturers, distributors, integrators, service providers and end-users.

This year, ISE 2017 will feature over 3,000 square meters of additional show-floor exhibition space compared to ISE 2016 and is set to be the largest show in the event's history. Jim Hallington, Managing Director for Clockaudio Ltd. says, "We have always felt that this show plays an integral part in creating new business opportunities in the AV marketplace." He adds, "we look forward to another banner year at the show."

Clockaudio is an International trendsetting developer and manufacturer of Professional Microphones and Audio Processors. At ISE, the company will be exhibiting their latest range of unique ceiling microphones and wireless systems for a variety of applications. In addition, they will display an extensive range of gooseneck and boundary microphones.

Rod Geary, International Sales & Marketing Manager for Clockaudio comments, "Whenever we have the chance to be on the road, we look forward to interacting with clients, consultants, integrators and potential prospects to discuss their unique project challenges and present our customization capabilities." For more information about the event, the ISE website is located at www.iseurope.org. Clockaudio's booth stand at the show will be 7-Q190.
